Pretty Polly Said ---! Buz-z-z! Swarmed Bees, Stinging Parrot to Death

Now All Glendora Wants to Know What Did Bird Call
Honey Pickers Before Fatal Battle.

By Harry Burke

"Polly want a cracker?"
"Yes-s-s--yes-s-- Polly wants a cracker."

That shrill, screechy answer of Polly Hosfeldt will never be heard in Glendora again. Polly is dead.
The youngsters in the neighborhood of 209 South Vista Bonita, going to and from school, can call "Polly want a cracker?" in vain. Under a mound in the back yard, with a posy or two atop it, Polly lies prone in silent eternity.

The bees from the hives nearby
buzz around but pluck no honey
from the flowers near Polly's grave. The bees killed Polly-- stung her to death in a sudden relentless fury that provides a perplexing mystery for nature students to solve.

Why did the bees kill Polly?
What did Polly say to the bees?
What unforgiving insult cost Polly her life? No, Polly did not cuss the bees. Polly's vocabulary was minus profanity. For twenty years she had lived in the bosom of the Hosfeldt family without uttering a single cuss word. Only the bees can tell why they killed
Polly, and they won't tell.

Polly Twenty Years Old

Polly came to the Hosfeldt family twenty years ago at the time
the stork paid a visit with Vivian Hosfeldt and every year since Polly and Vivian have had a joint birthday celebration. Polly has always had the freedom of the house and the yard, her favorite perch being on the limb of a loquat tree in the back yard. She shared the tree daily with the bees from the nearby hives. In blossom time they swarmed around her. She scolded at times when they buzzed too much but they did not resent it. From limb to limb Polly would climb to make room for them. Sometimes she would flap her wings
in added protest, but the busy bees scorned her.

The other day Dona Hosfeldt
was rebuilding the back steps.
Polly was on her favorite limb
in the loquat. She was bithely gay, talking to herself, preening herself, making make-believe in the warm sunshine.
"Polly is happy today," Dona
said to his mother, who had come to the kitchen door.

"Look at the bees flying around her," Mrs. Hosfeldt said.
"Just buzzing around," said Dona.

Suddenly Polly screeched. It was a cry of distress. Mrs. Hos-feldt came running to the door again. Dona turned to Polly.
"They are attacking her," cried
Mrs. Hosfeldt.

Polly Takes Tumble

Polly was crouched at bay, cringing. There was a note of pain in her screech. She seemed to totter, then she fell. The lower limbs of the tree broke her fall. When she struck the ground
she rose and staggered to the wire fence. She tried to climb the fence, then fell back. Dona picked her up. In the tiny bare spot at the end of her nose there were three stingers.

That was the end of Polly. She died in half an hour.
"Some say the bees mistook the red spot in Polly's head for a flower," said Mrs. Hosfeldt, "but that can't be true. Bees don't sting the flowers. Our bees knew Polly and never hurt her before.
Maybe she did say something to them."

"Yes, maybe the flying creatures have a language of their own," suggested Dona. "You never can tell."
"I have had the bees for some time," said Dona. "I was crossing the desert one day and saw a bunch swarming on a sage bush. I drove home and got a box and went out and took the bees home. I put them in a regular bee box and all those bees
there are from that first swarm."

Had to Saw Limb

"The day of the tragedy I saw two swarms leave the hives. One went to Polly's loquat tree and the other to another tree. I got the ladder and had to cut the limb of the other tree to get the swarm back to the hives. The swarm in the loquat tree followed home soon after. But maybe they blamed Polly for disturbing them.
You can't understand a bee's mind."

The busy bee is a canny creature. Nature lovers have been studying them for centuries and they have provided unending enigma. They have homes, governments, discipline, better regulated communities than Glendora, Sierra Madre, or any other municipality.
They are more powerful than the man-made armies, Napoleonic in strategy, Spartan in courage.

WHAT DID PARROT SAY TO THE BEES THAT COST LIFE?

The extraordinary battle between the bees and Polly the parrot, that cost the bird its life, is causing so much comment and speculation among nature students, that THE NEWS invites comment or explanation of the tragedy. The editor will be glad to publish letters received from the readers of THE NEWS.

What did the parrot say to the bees?

What did the parrot do to arouse their fury?

Why did they suddenly turn against a companion and pal
of years?

Lee Shippey Rents Entire Hotel When Landlords Say "No!"

Mr. Lee Shippey, noted Leside of the Los Angeles Times, and famed father of Sierra Madre, has five boys mounting ladder-like in size, the oldest just launched in the mischievous teens.

Mr. Shippey recently purchased a lot on Neher Drive, and decided to transplant the house he has lived in at 161 Auburn to the new site. The operation required that Mr. and Mrs. Shippey and their five young sons find a temporary habitation, so Mr. Shippey undertook a canvass of real estate agents and landlords. The first one he approached said:
"No."

Mr. Shippey thought there was something behind the answer not apparent in the two syllable negative, but he advanced on a second agent, and the answer was
"No."

The columnist staggered a bit,
then groped to a consciousness
that maybe landlords do not cherish the presence of five growing boys under their roofs. But Mr.
Shippey is a regular Joe Grimm for punishment and he corralled another agent. This time the answer was
"No."

When Mr. Lee Shippey recovered from the count he hired the Mira Monte hotel, at 426 Auburn.
Two floors will house his family.
No. Mr. Shippey's opinion of the landlord attitude toward children will not be printed in Leside.
What he would like to say would burn a hole in The Times.

GIRL CYCLIST KILLED ON VALLEY BOULEVARD

Jewel Wood, 17, of 503 South Raymond street, Alhambra, was riding on the rear of a motorcycle driven by Arnold Miller, of Los Angeles, on Valley Boulevard
near El Monte, when a car said to have been driven by M. S.
Hughes, of Los Angeles, crashed into them throwing the girl into the path of a car going West.
Miss Wood died from her injuries.
Hughes was arrested, although he claimed that he had arrived on the scene after the accident.
Marks on his car led deputy sheriffs to believe he was in the accident.

Auto Tragedy Brings Grief To Home Here

Daughter and Son-in-law of Santa Fe Agent Killed
In Collision

Residents of Sierra Madre were reminded yesterday of the terrible tragedy that had visited the home
of R. C. Knowles, Santa Fe agent, when three hearses moved slowly
from the Congregational Church to Sierra Madre cemetery with the three victims of last Sunday's auto crash. As the hearses moved up Central avenue through the center of the city all those on the street stopped and gave silent evidence of their sympathy for those aggrieved.

George M. Bennett and his wife, daughter of D. C. Knowles, Santa Fe agent at Sierra Madre, left their home, 3073 West Blvd., Los Angeles, with their three young children, Opal, Stanley and George Jr., last Sunday morning for a ride to the desert to see the wild flowers in full bloom. They picked up Mrs. Phillip Wasserman, Mr.
Bennett's sister, and her three children, Rose, Julia and a two-year-old baby, at their Los Angeles home, and started off for a day's excursion filled with the joy of living.

A few short hours later Mr.
and Mrs. Bennett and seven-year-old Rose Wasserman were dead.
The sedan was a wreck and the surviving members of the party were in the Upland hospital fighting for life.

Mr. Bennett was driving. Two miles beyond Ontario on the Valley Boulevard, he swung to the left to pass an other car and crashed head on into a heavy gasoline truck. The sedan crumpled like an eggshell under the impact of the juggernaut. Scores of cars were within sight and hearing of the crash. The victims were dragged from the wreckage and rushed to the hospital. The driver of the truck, who escaped injury,
was so overcome with shock he could not speak and has not yet recovered his voice.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Rose
Wasserman were dead. Stanley Bennett, 10 years old, had both legs broken and received other injuries. George Bennett, 6 years old, received a fractured skull and a broken leg. Mrs. Wasserman was badly bruised. Little Julia Wasserman was cut and bruised,
and the Wasserman baby sustained a fractured skull.

Mr. Knowles rushed to Upland as soon as he received word of the accident. He brought his granddaughter, Opal, to his home here on Live Oak avenue, where she is slowly recovering from her physical hurts and the shock of the terrible visitation. Reports from the Upland hospital say that the others will recover.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Rose Wasserman were brought to Sierra Madre. Funeral services for the three victims were held in the Congregational church
yesterday afternoon, Rev. A. O.
Pritchard officiating. The burial took place in the Sierra Madre cemetery.

MONDAY IS DEADLINE DAY FOR COUNTY TAX

Monday next will be the deadline day for the second half of the county taxes for the fiscal year, 1929-30. They will become delinquent April 28 at 5 p. m., when the five per cent penalty goes into effect. Payment may be made at the tax collector's office in the Hall of Records, Los Angeles, or by mail, but attention is called to the rule that it is too late to use personal checks, not certified, and payment must be made in currency, money order or certified check.

The "Progressive Party," of China, with four candidates running for re-election, will again
guide the destinies of that city for a four-year period. Eight citizens sought election.

Don't Be Selfish

Have your friends and relatives in distant places meet the interesting people who live in Sierra Madre and walk across the pages of THE NEWS each week; have them
visualize the delightful gardens
that are so characteristic of this beautiful city, tell them of the interesting events of your home town; let them enjoy the friendly spirit and kindly interest that abounds here. Subscribe for THE NEWS in their names so that it will go forward to them each week and they will understand the environment in which you live.
They will appreciate it and it will save you infinite time and letter writing. Incidentally it will cause your town to be talked of favorably and people who come to California will want to see it, to live here and to share the tranquility that you enjoy. And it will help your city.

Grand Jury Begins Probe Of Shortage

Experts Find $1429.20 Missing from City Water Department Funds

As a result of a shortage of $1429.20 found in the accounts of the Water Department books of the city clerk's office, Sierra Madre, the district attorney of Los Angeles county yesterday presented evidence to the grand jury with the request that an indictment be returned against a former city employee.

The first evidence of a shortage
was disclosed about a month ago,
when the city authorities put the matter in the hands of the district attorney, R. J. Burbee, an expert accountant, was employed to check up the water department accounts. His examination disclosed that the alleged peculations
had all occurred during the period of service of a former woman employee. Small amounts, covering a period of a year and a half, had made up the total of $1429.20.
The money vanished each month
with such constant regularity, that the possibility of error or inefficiency was eliminated, the investigators said.

Fred Shelley, deputy district attorney, took charge of the investigation and sent Harry Owen, an investigator, to Sierra Madre.
Owen questioned all of the present city employees and the former employee, who at the time was active in the city election campaign.
The answers of the former employee to certain questions were unsatisfactory, and suspicion was aroused by the sudden departure of the same person on a 4000-mile sea voyage.

The shortage first came to light
when the bank deposits from the water department were found to be short of the receipts. When the discrepancy became apparent
the services of the auditor who had approved the accounts during the period of the shortages was dispensed with by the city.

Every day money is paid in at the City Clerk's office, either in checks or currency. The evidence appears to show that the clerk gave a receipt in full for all money received, then changed the amount on the receipt stub and on the ledger to agree with the total deposited. The ledger clearly showed where the original figures had been erased, the investigators alleged.

Among the employees and former employees of the clerk's office who were questioned by the district attorney's investigator, was Mrs. Marie McArthur, a former deputy clerk who retired from office after the recall election of less than a year ago. She is at present in Honolulu visiting a sister.

New Council Selects Its Committees

City's Projects Go Right Forward Following Organization

Many representatives of civic organizations were present at the meeting of the city council held on Monday night, when canvassing of the votes cast at the recent election and the installation of councilmen took place.
After the verification of the votes,
a resolution was adopted declaring the results of the election
valid. Mayor Albert S. Myers swore in City Clerk Elmer A.
Green, who in turn inducted into office Councilmen Wm. R. Lees, Lester K. Layton and H. Clay Reavis. The three councilmen will serve for a term of four years and the city clerk for two years.

The city clerk reported that the sale of water bonds to the Staats
Company had been completed.
J. O. Smith, president of the Central Avenue Association, expressed confidence in the ability of the council to carry on the work of public administration in a constructive manner and Lester
K. Layton in behalf of the council thanked the association for its hard work and co-operation.
Reorganization of the City Council took place at the regular Wednesday night meeting when committees for the coming term
were announced.

Members of the ordinance,
building and finance committee
are Mayor Al Meyers, chairman, H. Clay Reavis, and Wm. R. Lees;
the water, street and sanitation
committee, Ralph W. Stewart, chairman, Lester K. Layton, and

and park committee, Lester K.
Layton, chairman, Ralph W. Stewart, and Wm. R. Lees.

reported that the laying of the 14 and 16-inch water pipe along

is completed and that the water

New Glider Club For Sierra Madre Starting Tonight

The Sierra Madre Glider Club will be organized tonight (Friday), at a meeting to be held in Adolph Kelterborn's shop in Kersting Place. It is expected that a score of young flying enthusiasts, some of whom took the air in Kelterborn's schooling plane last Sunday for the first time, will become charter members. Kelterborn will probably be named president, and his chief assistant in the building of the Sierra Madre and the present school ship, Al Belohlavek, will likely be chosen for an office. All Sierra Madreans are invited to attend the meeting. The chief object of the club is to promote motorless flying and to raise funds for the building of a new sailplane to take the place of the wrecked Sierra Madre.
The plans for the ship have been drawn and approved by an aeronautical engineer.

Eight Local Boys Fly on Muroc Lake

Score of Youngsters Meet
To Form Sierra Madre
Glider Club

Adolph Kelterborn and his airplane genius promise to turn out a score of youthful gliders in Sierra Madre. Eight youngsters had their baptism in the air at Muroc Lake last Sunday in the seat of the schooling plane. Adolph constructed out of the salvage of his first big plane--the Sierra Madre.

Long before dawn last Sunday
Kelterborn and ten of his aides started off on the long trek to Muroc dry lake, where they hoped to find a suitable wind to give the schooling ship plenty of speed.
The lake is thirty miles beyond
Lancaster, and as the trailer carrying the ship is rather slow-going, the group grew weary on arrival at their destination to find not a breath of wind but terrific heat. Muroc is eight miles long and four miles wide and as smooth and hard as glass.

Not to be deprived of their sport the boys improvised a tow rope 125 feet long, attached one end to an auto and the other to the nose of the airship. Kelter-born was the first to take the seat. As the auto gained speed the plane lifted into the air and sailed along as gracefully as a bird forty feet high.

"There was no wind but the speed of the auto would have kept me up all day," said Adolph.
"The ship acted perfectly and it looked so easy all the boys wanted to try it."

Al Belohlavek, Joe Belohlavek,
Francis Haden and Frank Foster took their turn in the seat and sailed around the lake. They had no trouble managing the simple controls, and all made easy landings. Then Marino Lorenzini, Fred Laloue, Marvin Webster and Harold Munson took the air. They were green at the controls and flying for the first time, so the towing auto's speed was lessened
to keep them close to the ground and obviate all danger. O. R.
Sherer and Jay Cooper chose to be spectators.

There was frequent trouble with the slim towing rope. It snapped a number of times, but each time
the plane dropped gracefully to the lake bed.

There will be a bigger party of enthusiasts back on Lake Muroc next Sunday, when it is hoped to find a real flying wind. In any event the boys will have a heavy towing rope. Kelterborn stored the plane there to await the further trials.

Census Reveals Many Newcomers In Sierra Madre

"In my enumeration work I find a great number of newcomers to Sierra Madre. Of course, a lot of people just can't stay away from Sierra Madre, especially after the Fete and the rotogravure. But another thing that is bringing people in is the work afforded by the water improvements on the streets."

Mrs. Heimes, Sierra Madre's
census taker, shook her head slightly. "There's one thing that worries me. The other census takers and I have worked hard-- sometimes set up until four in the morning working on the figures we got in the daytime.
But I don't feel we got everybody and we've got to do that. It's not too late yet and I can't stress
how important it is for everybody
in Sierra Madre to be registered.
"Another thing. All resident aliens should register unless they are here on a six months tourist pass. I mention that because some people feel if they are not citizens they should not be counted in the census."

Woman's Club Launches Campaign For Wistaria At Every Home In City

Plans Fall Flower Show and Will Supply Plants to Beautify
All Vacant Lots and Approaches -- Mayor Promises Cooperation

With the closing of the 1930 Wistaria Fete the Woman's Club has launched a movement looking not only to the greater beautification of Sierra Madre but to emphasize its outstanding characteristic by the universal planting of wistaria vines.

In the hope that there will be a wistaria blooming in every yard and garden when the city's great annual festival is opened next year, the Woman's Club, at its annual meeting on Wednesday, adopted a resolution calling upon its members and the citizens of Sierra Madre generally to plant wistaria vines now.

The proposal was received with great enthusiasm and there seems but little doubt that it will be taken up by all of the other civic organizations at their approaching meetings, to the end that the individuality of Sierra Madre, whose soil is so perfectly adapted to the growing of the beautiful wistaria, shall be cultivated to the utmost.

Fall Flower Show

But the program to beautify
the city and make it even more attractive when the great throngs return for next year's spectacle goes much further. The holding of a Fall flower show and the collection and planting of all manner of plants, shrubs and bulbs
this summer and Fall is proposed.
The contemplated Fall show has not been worked out in detail as yet, but the Woman's Club has issued a call to all home owners and lovers of the beautiful to begin planting now with the idea of having the city appear at its gayest and best next Spring.

The Club will undertake the distribution of cuttings of plants and shrubs. Householders are asked to share their extra cuttings and their extra bulbs of iris, tulips, gladiolus, narcissi, Chinese lilies, daffodils or other bulbous flowers. If these are turned over to the Woman's Club they will be distributed to the people making requests for them without charge.
And later, Mrs. John H. Robertson, the club's president, says,
a campaign will be undertaken to have the approaches to the city
beautified and the fields and vacant lots plowed up for the planting of wild flowers, so that Sierra Madre will be a perfect riot of color. In this movement the club expects the help of all other organizations.

City Approves Plan
Mayor Albert Myers has assured
Mrs. Robertson that the city council will cooperate to the limit
in the undertaking. This latter feature of the program, however,
need not be undertaken until the next rainy season sets in and in the meantime the fields and mountainside offer a good general idea of what may be done by concerted action.

People are still coming to see
Sierra Madre's famous Fennel
vine and the hundreds of others
about the city, and they will continue to come for some time, but the Fete is officially over. It closed at sundown on Wednesday
when the tents and booths on souvenir possible.

At Wednesday's meeting of the Woman's Club a resolution was offered by Mrs. Emil Sturmhall thanking and congratulating THE NEWS for its Wistaria number,
and expressing to the City Council appreciation for the cooperation that made publication of the souvenir possible.

MANY FINE WISTARIA VINES MAKE HOMES HERE BEAUTIFUL

By Isabel F. Asbury

Wasn't it wonderful to have all the nice visitors who came to our Wistaria Fete--more than 70,000
of them Chief Richards says-- to entertain them and to "let them in on" the beauties of Sierra Madre?

But wasn't it too bad that so comparatively few of them had the time or opportunity to find out how very beautiful the city really is. Of course they were all enthusiastic about the famed Fennel vine and the enchanting gardens our hospitable home folk threw open to them, but only a few knew of all the other magnificent Wistaria vines, many of them children of the Fennel vine,
that collectively cause Sierra Madre to be known the world over as the "Wistaria City."

I wonder if we at home realize how many very wonderful Wistaria vines there are here and how peculiarly our soil is adapted to produce the very finest of Wistaria. I was given an assignment to go out and look at some of the best known of them when they were at the height of their loveliness. And even I was amazed.

PARTY AT WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club will give a dancing and bridge party on Saturday, May 3, at the Clubhouse, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. R. M.
Finlayson has charge of the decorations, Mrs. E. D. Burbank and Mrs. R. S. Corlett of bridge, and Mrs. E. E. Bacon of refreshments.
Miss Klass, teacher of the class
in ballroom dancing, has charge of the special features. Admission will be 50 cents, and everyone, old and young, is invited.

Upland is laying claim to a prize lemon twig. The Chamber of Commerce has on display a twig from a tree owned by Earl E. Marsh on which there is a bunch of 11 full-sized lemons.

Mayor A. H. Johnson, of Upland, re-elected for another term in City Council, declines to take the office of mayor again. He has declared for P. H. McQuillan, who will probably be chosen. Johnson has been a member of council for 16 years.

Crystal Lake county park, at the foot of Mount Islip, and above the headwaters of the north fork of the San Gabriel river, comprising 1,290 acres will be opened this summer, says Fred E. Wadsworth, superintendent of county camps and playgrounds. An eight-mile road from Sycamore flats is nearly finished.

Residents of Monrovia, Duarte and Arcadia are still seeking a new name as substitute for the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte high school. The latest suggestion comes from Lois Lee Eaton, a graduate, who wants it called Monard, the "Mon" for Monrovia; "Ar," for Arcadia; and "Du," for Duarte.

Miss Peggy Greiner, of Alhambra, went to Isleta, N. M., to accompany East the body of her friend, Carlotta M. Maurer, of 1615 West Haven street, San Marino, who was one of the nineteen victims of the bus-train collision. Miss Greiner had planned to go East with her friend on the bus trip but at the last minute was forced to cancel the excursion.

Foothill boulevard, from Pasadena to the county line, has 75 stations and 175 gasoline pumps in 26 miles. Huntington drive has 46 stations and 136 pumps. Walnut street, Pasadena, holds the record for stations considering its length, having fourteen and 44 pumps. Colorado street, in its six miles, has 34 stations and 94 pumps.

There will be 50 chapters of the Isaac Walton League in Southern California before the end of the year, Dave L. Vashinder, president of the Orange Belt Council, told members of the San Gabriel river chapter, at a meeting in Upland. He told of restocking of streams with fish, reforestation, and advocated removing the California Fish and Game Commission from politics.

Pomona College will send two expeditions out to study the eclipse on April 28th. Dr. Frank E. Brackett will have charge of them. One will be stationed on the desert south of Susanville near Honey Lake, and the other near Cantonville. Motion pictures will be taken for study. A number of advanced students in astronomy will assist.

Six-gallon hats and riding boots marked the crowd of ranchers and riders attending the hearing of Peter Tarico, at Covina, charged with cruelty to animals. It was alleged that he had neglected to take care of 30 head of broncos, mules and colts and nine had died because of lack of water and sufficient pasture. The hearing had a real touch of the vanishing West. Judge Reed found Tarico not guilty.

Arcadia is solidly opposed to consolidation with Los Angeles. Mayor A. N. Multer declared at a meeting in the Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles, to promote a unification of city and county governments within Los Angeles.

M. of Saturday, the 3rd day of May, 1930, receive bids for the purchase of the following described street improvement bonds:

Sierra Madre, California, April 11, 1930.

C. J. PEGLER, City Treasurer.

Two Sunrise Services Held In Hills Here

Inspiration and Scenic Points Gather Good Crowds Easter Dawn

Two sunrise services were held in Sierra Madre at dawn of Easter. The echo of the bugle call from Inspiration Point had hardly died away until another call came from Scenic Point. More than 300 attended the Inspiration Point ceremony. For a week previous a lighted cross, visible all over San Gabriel valley, had marked the spot.

Rev. Arthur O. Pritchard, of Congregational Church, conducted the services above the canyon, held under the auspices of the Canyon Improvement Association. Mr. Pritchard spoke on "Easter Dawn." Just as the sun peeped over the hills a comet solo, "The Palms," was played by Bernice Lindgren. Congregational singing, the invocation and reading of the scriptures were followed by "Easter Dawn," sung by B. W. Bailey. Grainer's "Hosanna" was contributed by Laura Estelle Cadmus, her rich soprano carrying all over the hills. Mrs. Myrtle G. Hill, choir director of the Congregational Church, was at the organ.

Mrs. W. B. Corum, president of the Association, was responsible for the ivy and lilies entwined about the cross. Before the ceremony, Herbert Grammel and J. W. Frazer rode through the streets of Sierra Madre announcing the service with calls from their bugles.

The scenic point service was conducted by Rev. William Duncan Ogg of Bethany Church. It was held in the shadow of the famous Fennel Wistaria vine. Members and friends of Bethany turned out in large numbers. Rev. Mr. Ogg chose as his theme, "The Power, Promise and Peace of the Resurrection." The Bethany Church Choir supplied the music. At the eleven o'clock service in Bethany Church, Rev. Ogg spoke on "Easter Joy." This service was noteworthy for the largest attendance for over two years.

FRUIT THIEVES JAILED Two more Calavo thieves are paying the penalty for taking fruit from Calavo groves, Ed Fite and his brother Jim, of La Habra, having been sentenced to six months in the county jail for stealing fruit from the grove of H. A. Randall, La Habra city councilman and a member of the Calavo Growers of California.

Hot Lead

Sierra Madre was the Mecca of our last 18th District Legion Pilgrimage. A gathering of the Saints and Near Saints, celebrated personalities, and plain hard-struggling Politicians. Then, too, there was the Buck Private Legionnaire, just the plain hard-working, useful fellow, 'cause we can't all be doing "Bunk Fatigue," you know. Someone has to wear the blue denims and sorta police up a bit. Can't have too many Captains and Generals on dress parade.

Speaking of the "Buck Private" there's Ike and Mike (do they look alike?) I mean the two little fellows that prepared the Koshers sandwiches and coffee. The evening's enjoyment would have been incomplete, had they been Captains. Again, I say, who would carry on for the Strawberry committee or would try to spear a hole in the ceiling with the eagles on the ends of the color staffs?

I don't want to seem one-sided and give all the credit to the Private, 'cause the General and Captain are useful for some things. For example, the other night, Private Evans did a lotta tight rope walkin' atyrin' to explain somethin' about Veteran Legislation. The more he talked, the more we didn't know about the subject. We finally called on "Friar Tuck" for further elucidation.

Here's a secret we're going to let you in on. "Friar Tuck" is none other than Phil Dodson, a whose who in Legion circles. I'm getting a little ahead of my story. About the Strawberry Committee again. Did you notice anything strange about the way they dilt on certain phases of the report? Frinstance, everyone seemed to be in good spirit, then spiritedly, finally taking on the air of a spiritualistic seance with the room full of Edgeworth incense as produced by Stinman's and Embree's smudge pots.

After the show was well under way, "Chief Sitting-Bull" slipped quietly in, hoping no one would see him and ask embarrassing questions about the new type of cranial ventilator he was wearing. The Chief claims he stopped rather suddenly under a two by two scantlin' and that did it.

We should promote Comrade Norman Jensen to the rank of General for the wonderful program procured by him last Monday's meeting. More power to you, Comrade! By the way, he's a new member too. Which is a splendid example to be followed by our older members of the ALIBI CLUB.

Sierra Madre Joins Valley In Ballyhoo

Plan Is Devised to Sell Its Great Advantages to All the World

A real plan to sell the San Gabriel valley and its myriad advantages, climatic, economic, industrial and residential, to the world at large, was launched at a meeting of directors of the San Gabriel Valley Development Association held in the Aztec Hotel, Monrovia, last Monday. Frank Hayes, of Pasadena, president of the Association, presided and details were worked out for the raising of a budget provided on an equitable basis from the various cities interested. The valley takes in all the district between Pasadena and Pomona, and each community will be asked to do its share of the missionary work.

Among these cities and districts are: Pomona, El Monte, Covina, San Gabriel, Alhambra, Pasadena, Rosemead, Duarte, Arcadia, Azusa, Claremont, La Verne, Temple City, Spadra, San Dimas, Sierra Madre, Glendora, Baldwin Park and Puente. Members of the board of directors are: A. B. Marshall, Mark Potter and P. W. Smith, Pomona; Frank Hayes, Pasadena and El Monte; J. L. Matthews, H. Damorel and J. D. Soles, Covina; H. A. Lane, San Gabriel; Chris Campbell, W. F. Globe and W. C. Gorman, Alhambra; Franklin Thomas, Pasadena; E. D. McSweeney, Rosemead; C. V. H. Jones, Duarte; Herman Moore, S. V. Schermerborn, J. E. Talley and W. L. Hoffeditz, Arcadia; Murray Vosburg and Elbert Griffith, Azusa; C. N. Burton, Claremont; Arthur Durward and T. H. Williams, La Verne; Arthur Britain and D. D. Coughran, Temple City; Paul Boyle, Spadra; W. G. Fields and Fay Marchant, San Dimas; J. M. Campbell, Sierra Madre; Charles Gordon, Glendora; George Mayland, Baldwin Park; C. E. Sears, Los Angeles; R. L. Woods, El Monte; Lance D. Smith and Charles O. Shoop, Puente.

LOCAL BOYS GET MEDALS Charles S. Hull, son of Mr. W. S. Hull, 542 Montecito, Sierra Madre, has made so noteworthy a record in typewriting at Woodbury College, Los Angeles, that he has been presented with gold medals from two of the world's leading typewriter companies.

Worm Army Cleans 600 Acres of Vines Close to Ontario

An army of worms is attacking vineyards in the vicinity of Ontario and have already stripped the foliage off 600 acres of vines, reports R. R. McKennett, San Bernardino horticultural inspector, who has issued a warning to all grape growers. The worm army, made up of three varieties, spinach, army and cut worms, appeared suddenly and so far have defied efforts to halt their advance. One hundred men are digging ditches through the vines of the Italian Vineyard Company, the largest grower in the country. The County Supervisors will probably be asked for funds in the fight against the pests.

575-Foot Boulder Dam Planned Now In Flood Control

Boulder Dam ought to be 25 feet higher than the 550-foot height originally planned, recommends the Colorado River Board of Engineers and Geologists, headed by Maj.-Gen. William L. Sibert, in a report to Secretary Wilbur. Increase in the height, the board said, would provide additional flood control storage of 4,500,000 acre-feet, with free board of three feet, thus making the total flood control storage 9,500,000 acre-feet. The elevation of the top of the dam above sea level, with the 25 feet added, will be 1,232 feet.

When You Think of PRINTING, Think of THE NEWS and its Three Presses

Grow Peppy Speaker Tells Kiwanis Club

Enthusiasm Is the Main Spring of Life, Keynote of Luncheon Talk

"The greatest thing in business or life is enthusiasm. It is the mainspring of any personal organization."

This was the keynote struck by H. L. Arland, past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and now chairman of public relations of the J. H. Ferguson Co., speaking before the Kiwanis club last Tuesday. Mr. Arland is one of the most effective speakers ever to appear before this club and his speech made a great hit.

For the coming month the local club has a lineup of speakers who will challenge the interest of all. Next week all the Kiwanis clubs in the country will celebrate United States-Canada week and the Sierra Madre club has been fortunate enough to secure Rev. Barnes of South Pasadena, who will speak on "Unguarded Borders."

The speaker for the week of May 6 will be Lieutenant Barlow of the Los Angeles police department, whose work in fingerprints entitled him to share the Hickman reward money. He will speak on "Classification of Fingerprints and Their Use in Detecting Criminals."

A talk on advertising will feature the May 13 meeting. Chas. E. Sidour, instructor in merchandising, advertising and psychology at Pasadena Junior College, will be the speaker.

Social Service Work Sunday School Feature

The Junior department of the Congregational Sunday School under the capable supervision of Mrs. George B. Morgridge, has featured social service work this year in all their work. Money has been sent to a girl working her way through school. Candy eggs were sent this Easter to the children in the county hospital from the boys and interesting scrap books made by the girls.

A box of small toys and games were sent to the Philippine Islands as part of a large program from all over the United States. A picture of the Junior department was framed and given to Rev. and Mrs. Pritchard.

Mrs. Merrill's class of boys, who had modeled the books of the old Testament out of wood, presented them to the department.

Presbyterians to Lift Bars Against Marriage

The Presbyterian Church will probably let down the marriage bars at the general assembly to be held in Cincinnati, June 2. The report of a commission recommends the removal of the ban against Protestants marrying Catholics. Henceforth the commission would have it that marriage between "all sorts of people" is lawful, but that it is the duty of Christians to marry "only in the Lord."

The commission also finds acceptable the use of contraceptives under medical advice, but it adds that "a baby in the home now and then is a splendid diversion."

OBSERVANCE OF MEMORIAL DAY IS LEGION'S PURPOSE

An interesting talk on "Commercial Flying," by D. Robertson, of the Foothill Flying Field, was one of the highlights of the meeting of the local Legion Post on Monday night. Another feature was a four-year old champion trap drummer, from Eagle Rock, who aided by his father and mother, gave an unusual performance.

Tentative plans for Memorial Day observance were made during the regular business session. Charles Taylor and Dan Lewis acted as K. P.'s in providing the lunch that followed the meeting.

CLEAN YOUR SMOKED GLASSES ON MONDAY AND SEE THE ECLIPSE

Sierra Madre will be in a chosen spot to see the eclipse of the sun next Monday morning. Scientists on Mt. Wilson have fixed the beginning at 9:34 A. M., when the edge of the moon will start across the disk of the sun. The maximum will be reached at 10:58, then will decline ending at 12:22 P. M. The eclipse will begin in the South Pacific and from a point Southwest of San Francisco where it becomes total the moon's shadow will sweep across Central California and Nevada, increasing in width until it is .66 of a mile across, then diminishing. The speed of the shadow during the total eclipse in Northern California will be about 25.7 miles a minute over the earth's surface, and at most totality will last only a second and a half.

Victory for All Powers In London Naval Pact

Three hours of speechmaking, fifteen minutes to sign the pact and the London naval conference ended after three months of negotiation. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and the American delegation are on the Leviathan coming home. President Hoover has announced that he will ask the Senate to give the treaty immediate consideration. The London agreement is a victory for no one nation, said Senator Reed, of the American delegation, but rather "a great step toward the preservation of friendly and peaceful relationships between these three great naval powers."

FOUR STATES CELEBRATE

Three great state picnics will be held in Sycamore Grove Park all day Sunday, May 3. Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, each will have a separate section of the park and will open county registers and headquarters. There will be a joint program after the basket dinner hour. President Lyndon S. Black has called the Texans to meet in their annual picnic reunion, celebrating San Jacinto Day, Sunday, April 27, in Sycamore Grove Park. In addition to the usual feature there will be a barbecue.

How Woman Can Join Auxiliary of American Legion

The following letter received by THE NEWS is fittingly answered by the head of the Legion Auxiliary:

"Will you be kind enough to enlighten the writer (a subscriber) as to the national requirements for membership in the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary?"

"I would respectfully call your attention to an article in May number of Pictorial Review, 'Help for War Sufferers,' and particularly to the last paragraph as follows:

"The Auxiliary now has 333,000 members, but it needs 500,000. What woman eligible to its ranks—relatives of Legion members or of any man or woman who served in the War can resist the Auxiliary's appeal?"

"The writer and many of her friends, American born—and those of foreign birth (America's pride) who rank among our most wonderful and ideal citizens would be very grateful for the real national facts in the above mentioned patriotic organizations.

"Thanking you for your time and courtesy, I remain,"

Cordially,

MARION A. ALBRECHT.

(Mrs. Fred C.)

Mrs. Blanche I. Buie, president of the local auxiliary states that the wife, daughter, mother, widow or sister of any Legionnaire or of a Service Man who died in line of duty is eligible to membership in the Auxiliary; and for the Legion, honorable discharge from any branch of the service in the World War.

The first television theatre was opened at Jersey City, N. J., when sight and sound were broadcast simultaneously, by the use of short and broadcast waves. Only fair success attended the first attempt. Pictures were picked up at numerous points in Jersey City. The experiment is being made under the auspices of the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce. Only the heads and shoulders of the entertainers were shown.

Woman's Club Notes

At the annual election of the Woman's Club held Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse, next year's officers were elected as follows:

Miss Laura E. Cadmus, first vice president; Mrs. A. A. Halsey, second vice president; Mrs. William R. Lees, treasurer; Mrs. John H. Robertson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frederic S. Ackley, recording secretary, and Mrs. M. W. McBurney, auditor. Board members elected were: Mrs. John H. Osgood, Mrs. R. S. Corlett, Mrs. Waverly E. Pratt and Mrs. William Middough.

In the absence of nominations from the floor for president, the office will be filled by the new executive board at an early date. Seventy votes were cast at the election for new officers, who will be installed June 25. At this time officers for the current year will retire.

Lacking a quorum at the last meeting day of the club, the legal report of the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. W. R. Humphries, Mrs. J. M. Campbell and Mrs. Homer W. Glidden, was presented by Mrs. Humphries preceding the election.

Miss Edna R. Green, Mrs. Philip W. Senour and Mrs. E. H. Porter served as clerks on the election board. While counting of ballots was in progress Mrs. W. J. Lawless, chairman of the Public Welfare legislation section, reported on high lights of the recent district federation convention held at Glendale. She mentioned particularly vital issues now before women of the state.

Mrs. Robertson, the president, announced Mrs. John Lowe the second prize winner in the district federation Bible section contest and awarded her $2.50 from the district Bible chairman. Three entries of the twenty-seven submitted from the district were from the Sierra Madre club. Other contestants from this club were Mrs. Frederic S. Ackley and Mrs. Frank B. Butler. A letter from Miss Kathleen George from Southern Chile to the club was read by Mrs. Wolf, and a report of work with war veterans was given by Mrs. Philip W. Senour.

Miss Clara Sykes, Mrs. Laura M. Cline and a third representative to be appointed from the club, will attend the biennial convention in Denver on June 10. Tea was served by Mrs. Emile Smith at the close of the session. Mrs. George Lehner, Mrs. R. C. Copenhaver and Mrs. George Ferris assisted her at the table, which was attractively centered with a parol of Cecil Brunner roses. Tied to the handle were wide ribbon bows in shades of pink.

The chairman and members of the Garden and Community service sections of the club wish to express their thanks to owners of gardens opened to the public during the period of the Wistaria Fete, gardeners and those furnishing pilot cars on tours, for their splendid cooperation.

The art section of the club, with others in the district, will be entertained by Mrs. Nell Brooker Mayhew, district art chairman, at Laguna Beach on May 1, when an opportunity will be given to visit the galleries of that city. Arrangements may be made for the trip by calling Mrs. Fred Griebnow, chairman of the section, at Black 173.

The art exhibit at the "Little Gallery" in the City Hall will be changed on May 1, according to Mrs. Griebnow, who urges all desiring to see the present exhibit, to do so before that time.

Mrs. Robertson, the president, announced Mrs. John Lowe the second prize winner in the district federation Bible section contest and awarded her $2.50 from the district Bible chairman. 1. Dress prettily for breakfast.
2. Never make your husband dry dishes.
3. Friend husband should take you out just two evenings a week. The rest of the time let him stay home.

The next meeting of the Public Welfare legislation section will be held on May 2 at the home of Mrs. R. S. Corlett.

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Fred Griebnow attended the Beverly Hills Reciprocity on Tuesday.

Who Reads It?

Dr. Alfred P. Dennis, vice chairman of the Tariff Commission at Washington, offers statistics showing that 4,500,000 words were spoken in the Senate alone on the tariff bill, enough to fill 2,800 pages of the Congressional Record. And besides that, 1,800 pages were filled with testimony taken and 2,750 pages with other data. The material, he says, would fill two sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

It is said that any nation is as strong as the homes within its boundaries. Fire, then, strikes at the very heart of America when it causes a loss of over $43,000 a day in homes through carelessness with matches and "smokes." The National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that the total for 1928 in city, suburban and farm dwellings was in excess of $15,825,000.

By-pass roads, to relieve heavy travel on the main highways through towns are being advised by city planners and business organizations in various sections of the United States. Cities and towns are finding that one road is not sufficient to take care of the local and transient business and the through traffic has a tendency to kill rather than increase business.

GETTING IDEAS TO BETTER LOCAL PARKS

Survey of the Federal National park system to secure information to be used in improving existing methods of operating Los Angeles County recreation camps has just been authorized by the County Board of Supervisors with the granting of a 42-day leave of absence to Assistant County Superintendent of Recreation Camps C. J. Baker.

During his leave, Assistant Superintendent Baker will visit more than a dozen National parks in various sections of the country to study methods used by the government in carrying on its administration of the National park system.

AFTER THE ELECTION

To the Editor of the Sierra Madre News:-

EVENING
"The sun bath made a golden set and by the bright light of his fiery course gives token of a goodly day, the morrow."

Quietly Sierra Madreans wend their happy and once more peaceful way to wife and home situated on the beautiful gently sloping hillside of our mother mountain range. Fondly and lovingly friend and foe are folded on mother mountain's bosom to sleep away their woe. The day has gone and the night has passed, friendship and peace come to our little town at last. Friendship, the golden link in life's long chain and the link that bears the greatest strain. The little gust has passed, Sierra Madreans all united at last. We will let all the world know, all friends, no foe.

Green grows the leaves on our live oak trees,
Green grows the grass one always sees,
Green grows the mountain in which we roam,
Green, green is the watchword of our home.

SHRINERS ARRANGE PICNIC FOR CHILDREN

One out of every sixteen children who attend the second annual Shrine Children's Picnic, May 5, at the Uplifters Polo Field, will win a valuable prize, according to Potentate Fred J. Wadley, Jr., of Al Malakiah Temple, who yesterday approved final details for the picnic. Plans have been completed to care for a crowd of 5,000 children.

Children from 6 to 18 years, inclusive, will participate in games according to sex, age and size, while children under six years will be awarded prizes for events especially arranged for them.

Music, parades, clowns, magicians, a Punch and Judy show, airplanes, balloons, popcorn, peanuts and 8,000 slices of ice cream have been planned for the day. A basket picnic will be held on the grounds of the field at 12 o'clock and while ice cream, drinks, and other goodies will be distributed abundantly, those attending must bring their own basket lunches.

NEWSPAPER MEN SEE WISTARIA EDITION BOON FOR SIERRA MADRE

Publication of all the letters and messages of appreciation and congratulation that have showered into THE NEWS since publication of the Wistaria number is quite out of the question—there are hundreds of them and all are very greatly appreciated and most encouraging.

When the former editor and publisher of one of the country's leading metropolitan newspapers thinks well enough of the effort to write a few lines of appreciation we feel it should be passed on to our readers. So here is a letter from Col. Charles A. Rook, who for many years guided the destinies of The Pittsburgh Dispatch, written from his winter home in La Canada:

Dear "Larry":—
I want to join with the good people of Sierra Madre in hearty congratulations. Your Wistaria issue was really fine and must have delighted and surprised your readers. It did not surprise me for I know you, and so knew you would make a real newspaper. I take great pleasure reading each week's issue and noting the improvement in each issue.

With kind regards and wishing you the success you so richly have earned, believe me, as ever,

Most sincerely,
C. A. ROOK.

The Wistaria number came under the critical eye of John B. Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, whose appraisal would rate highly in any community. His letter follows:-

Favorite Dishes of Sierra Madreans

THIS recipe for "Apple Delight" is a favorite with Mrs. Henrietta Isaacs, one of Sierra Madre's most charming and hospitable hostesses.

Cut about three medium sized apples in slices, sprinkle 1-3 cup of sugar over them, then add 1-3 cup of water and a little lemon juice. Cook until partly done, then oil a pudding pan, put in apples and sprinkle with cinnamon. Cover with dough made of:
Yolks of three eggs
Three tablespoons water
Pinch of salt
1-2 cup of sugar
2-3 cup of flour
Small teaspoon baking powder.

Add stiffly beaten whites of three eggs.
Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream or lemon pudding sauce.

(Editor's Note — What is your favorite recipe, or dinner or luncheon menu — or breakfast dish? Your neighbors in Sierra Madre would undoubtedly be interested to read about it in THE NEWS.)

GENERAL ELECTRIC CLEANER

HIGHEST QUALITY at very low prices

Quality is vital in a cleaner. Any good cleaner will clean when it's new—but only a superior cleaner will stand up under constant use.

Of course the motor is the heart of the cleaner. These General Electric motors are made under the rigid standards which govern all General Electric products. Their ball bearings are packed in lubricant so that they need no oiling.

They supply the forceful suction needed for most thorough and deepest get-to-the-bottom cleaning.

General Electric Cleaners are surprisingly light in weight and easy to manipulate. You will agree, if you will merely come in and try one for yourself. We shall be glad to show you both models and to answer any questions which you may care to ask.

HEIRESS IN LONDON ROMANCE KNOWN HERE

Leah Pratt Fletcher, of 634 West Highland, reminisced this week when she read in a Los Angeles paper of the wedding in London of Vivian Maude Huntington, an heiress, to a newsboy. This young heiress' grandmother, from Logansport, Indiana, the former home of Mrs. E. E. Bacon, of 240 East Alegre, and Miss Fletcher's mother, were great friends; such friends that when our own Miss Fletcher arrived she was named Leah Pratt Fletcher, for Julia Pratt Huntington. Henry Huntington, of the Huntington Library, San Marino, was a close relative of the Logansport Huntingtons.

Miss Fletcher is the proud possessor of a Roman silk sash, a gift from Julia Pratt Huntington.

SEEING CALIFORNIA ON SHORT SCHEDULES HELP TO TOURISTS

Southern California's National tourist advertising organization, the All-Year Club, has completed a merchandizing plan in the form of an itinerary which shows millions of persons throughout the nation, whose annual vacations are limited to two weeks, how to vacation in California and what their expenses need be while here.

"The annual vacations of the majority of the latter are limited to two weeks. They represent the group which spends the bulk of $4,000,000,000 which Roger Babson, economist, says Americans spend annually for travel," says J. B. Browne, of the All-Year Club.

"After months of careful investigation we have prepared a vacation plan whereby, depending upon their place of residence, individuals can spend from seven to eleven days of a two weeks vacation in Southern California. The plan calls for the vacationists to leave a starting point like Chicago on Friday evening, by train, arriving in Southern California Monday morning, leaving Thursday evening of the following week, arriving back in Chicago Sunday night, thus giving 11 sight-seeing days in California between Santa Barbara and San Diego, out of the 16 days spent away from home."

If the doors on your car rattle, look at the little rubber door stops, which may be worn down. If they are replaced with new ones you usually will find the rattle disappears.

Travelling from Sacramento to San Francisco and back, with no human hand to guide it, a "robot" army airplane, controlled by a device about as large as a hatbox, made a perfect flight. New York's most modern church, housed in a 23-story apartment hotel costing $3,000,000, was launched on Easter Sunday to the music of a jazz orchestra. Rev. Edward H. Emmett, of the Manhattan Congregational Church, said the orchestra had been engaged to attract young people to the church.

Airplanes will make the passage from Europe to America in from six to eight hours, says Dr. Paul Heyland, in describing a new type rocket motor that will shoot the planes thousands of feet into the sky at a speed between 300 and 600 miles an hour. Hundreds of British couples, who were married in the elopement, Gretna Green, by the village blacksmith while holding hands over his anvil, have just been declared illegally wed. Beauty does not always guarantee marital bliss, as evidenced in the suit for divorce brought by Irvin Wheeler, of San Francisco, against Mrs. Pauline Keeler, the former Bradford Hampton, who won the international beauty contest at Galveston in 1922. Old age will disappear from time, says Dr. Gilbert N. Lewis, of the University of California, a theory more daring than relativity. HUNTER CAUGHT AFTER KILLING SEVEN DEER

"I think I'll shoot it out with you," John Benton told Deputy Game Warden Jolly when he walked in on him at his home in Hemet. "O. K. let's begin," said Jolly, drawing his gun. But Benton surrendered and was disarmed. Jolly found six freshly killed deer in Benton's house, and a seventh Chinese restaurant in San Jacinto. Benton was sent to jail for six months.

Benton had two camps in the San Jacinto mountains, and is said to have killed and sold a score of deer since the hunting season closed. He was widely known as a rattlesnake hunter.

More Wild Game in Hills Here Now Than 35 Years Ago, Says Local Hunter

Fifteen Minutes Walk Away But You Cannot Shoot Under New Laws

Fifteen minute's hike from the center of Sierra Madre the hills abound in wild game—deer, quail, rabbits, doves, and the predatory animals, fox, coyotes, possum, coons, badgers, skunks, ringtail cats, mountain lions. "There are more deer in the hills now than there were 35 years ago," says Vic Hill, Sierra Madre's most noted hunter.

"I don't go back that far, of course," says Vic, "but my authority is Louis Newcomb, of Grand View avenue, and he knows. Since 1916, when the game laws went into effect, the wild game have been unmolested by hunters, and that is the reason."

The scavenger coyotes come down out of the hills and invade Sierra Madre to raid chicken coops. Ten days ago Miss Minnie Davis, of West Grand View, turned her dogs loose after three invaders she found snooping around her hen coop. Three years ago a doe, chased by dogs, ran down through the center of the city and broke its neck. There is an official record of that event in the city hall because it was necessary to notify the Game Commission the city had some venison meat on its hands.

Counted 52 Deer

"The winter before last," continued Vic, "at Opid's Camp I had a man watching some young trees to keep the deer away. They came in at night and were destroying hundreds of trees. One night my man counted 52 deer. It was a bright moonlight night. I told the ranger and he laughed at me, so I took him out there. We walked around and down in the valley we saw the herd. They were lying about, resting. We walked up on them and they paid little attention to us. A big buck came from behind a rock and I threw a stone and hit him on the ribs. He looked around and saw us and a young fellow with us started after him with a club. He began to paw the ground and I called the youngster away. That animal would have torn the boy to pieces.

"Yes, there are plenty of deer. You can't shoot them in or out of season. First you have to get a permit to carry a gun through the game refuge, which extends from Sierra Madre to the desert.

If you get a permit to shoot deer beyond the game refuge you can not come back with the deer without another permit to bring it through. Mr. Newcomb has a ranch at Chella, 30 miles in, and he says there is plenty of wild game. It was near there Jack Peacock got the big cat.

Caught Big Cat

"Jack is an old hunter from Colorado and when he heard that a big cat was prowling around the hills back of Sierra Madre he came over from Pasadena. He found the tracks and came across two fresh kills of deer. Then he followed the cat's trail. He set some traps with salt water sea bass but it was no good. Then he changed his bait and the next morning about 2:30, he was awakened by a terrible commotion. He went out and found the cat in the trap. It was a big one, too, weighed about 125 pounds.

"Mrs. Loomis caught a big lion, too. She had a prize heifer she had made a pet of. One day she heard a cry and when she ran out of the ranch house she saw her heifer dead and the cat slinking away. She set a trap and the cat came back to stay. She fixed the beast with a gun.

"The cats don't come down into Sierra Madre but the coyotes are no strangers here. The peacocks down on the Anita Baldwin ranch lure them. They have done everything to guard the birds but the coyotes get to them. Miss Baldwin is one of the founders of the Red Star and she won't have a steel trap on the ranch.

Coyote Killed Pups

"One Sunday morning Gordon Brooks, the insurance agent, was on Esperanza street, when he saw a big coyote dart out and kill three puppies. He ran for his gun. I got a shotgun from the city hall and joined the chase.

"Chris Shuttleworth, who has charge of Miss Baldwin's Anoakia kennels, saw the coyote. His son threw a rock at it but the brazen beast paid no attention to him. Then Chris tried to get out his two wolf hounds. The oldest hound was so anxious to get out he tried to crash through the wire fence and almost ruined himself. The young dog attacked the coyote but was no match for it. The coyote grabbed a chunk out of his shoulder and that finished the dog's fighting.

"I set a trap that night and the next morning the trap was gone.

I trailed it through the grass and weeds to a barbed-wire fence. The trap was there and the barbed-wire was covered with fur but the animal was gone. The next day we learned that one of the Mr. Carlson's police dogs had been snared in the trap.

"The nearest thing to a real wild animal we have had in town was the 45-pound cat Bill Wright caught in his yard on Montecito street.

Got Biggest Bear

"Do you know," said Vic, and there was a note of hunter's regret in the realization that those days are gone forever, "that Monarch, the biggest grizzly ever captured alive, was caught in the hills back here. He was taken by some Mexican workers back in Tie Canyon. He was one of the prize exhibits at the San Francisco Fair. I saw his son. No, there aren't any bear around now. But I sure would like to see him. Mr. Newcomb saw Monarch one day near his ranch before he was captured. He sure was a monster."

Forest rangers in the 18 national forests of the State announce that their census of life in the primeval spaces indicates that there are half a million wild animals roaming at large. This fact need not cause any apprehension to motorists, since the major part of these are black tail and mule deer, antelope, mountain sheep, fox, skunks, martens, badger, raccoon, coyotes, lynx, mountain lion, bear, and smaller predatory animals, all of which are fearful of mankind and are glad to keep out of the way of human beings. There is not much danger of coming to grips with any of these, since they have 20,000,000 acres of restricted district to roam in, or an average of a 40-acre tract each.

Last year there were 21,222 deer killed in the State and of these more than half were taken in the national forests.

Fennels Saved Wistaria From Axe of Contractor

Owner Tells How the Famous Vine Developed and How Fete Began

By Harry Burke

"Yes, the contractor wanted to destroy the vine," said Mrs. Estelle Fennel. "Think of it! We'll have to cut the vine down," he said. "No, we will save the vine," Mr. Fennel said, before I could say my say, and so the vine was saved. Mr. Fennel made the contractor build a temporary support. That was seventeen years ago, when we bought the house and had it done over. The vine, of course, was nothing like it is today. It was in January, too, when it was bare. But somehow we had faith in it. But even so we never dreamed it would develop the way it has."

Mrs. Fennel sat in what, excepting the three weeks of the year when the Fete is on, is the living room of her home on Scenic Point. She looked out the window at the trellised beauty of her world-famous wistaria. There was pride in her expression, in the light in her eyes—the sort of pride kin to the mother-love for a delicate babe nursed over the brink to health and beauty—in this case a pride of giant stature—the sort the faded old woman had who lived in a shoe and had so many children she didn't know what to do. The old shoe woman's cares were nil compared to Mrs. Fennel's.

How It All Started

"The contractor demurred when we told him we would have to save the vine," said Mrs. Fennel. "But he had to do it. Mr. Fennel supervised the work of building the supports out beyond the house and transferring the vine to them. Some of the vine was sacrificed but the root and the main stems were kept intact, and when the house alterations were finished in about six weeks, Mr. Fennel supervised the return of the vine."

"When April approached the time was ripe for the vine to show its beauty and we were in great suspense. We watched it carefully and then one day it burst forth in fullest blossom and we were wonderfully happy."

"Mr. Fennel was very anxious to develop it to its fullest. He consulted with Mr. Ward and with several other experts and followed their advice in the care of the vine. He was determined to have it meet around the house. Three years later that ambition was accomplished when the runners came together on the northeast corner. Then people began to talk about it and come to see it."

"In 1914, long before the blossoms began to show, we had letters and phone calls and personal requests from many people, so we decided that we would hold a reception on the day it reached the peak. We sent out invitations and the place was overrun. That was really the beginning of what is now the Sierra Madre Wistaria Fete."

Given Tender Care

"As the vine spread along and its beauty enhanced we gave it more care. Mr. Fennel had discovered early that it had to be watched very carefully, for if the shoots were allowed to hang down for any length of time they would die. They had to have something to cling to."

"I was a member of the Dickens Fellowship and in 1915 decided to invite the members to hold a party here during the time the vine was in bloom. The members came in old-fashioned costumes, many patterned after the Dickens characters. Then a friend in Pasadena suggested that it would be wonderful to let the tourists know

FENNEL WISTARIA OF CHINESE VARIETY SAYS LOCAL EXPERT

There has been so much discussion and some speculation as to the exact variety of the famous Fennel Wistaria. THE NEWS decided to consult an expert.

"The Fennel Wistaria is what is known as chinensis or Chinese wistaria," said Irving Ward, of the Ward nursery. "It is the strongest grower and most prolific bloomer among the wistarias, its flowers being blue and pendulous. The Japanese wistaria is noted for the extreme length of its lilac flower racemes, sometimes measuring two feet. There is also a pink Japanese wistaria."

that we had such a wonderful bit of beauty here. Mr. Raymond, of the Raymond hotel, came over to see it. The Pasadena hotels began to send their guests over. In two weeks I counted more than four thousand visitors.

"The first organized effort to advertise it came in 1918, during the war, when the Red Cross took charge. I let them have the place. They served luncheons and opened gift shops and took in $2,300, out of which they cleared $1,850. Then the following year, 1919, the Woman's Club and the Board of Trade took charge jointly to raise funds to build a monument for our local war heroes. That was the first entry of the Woman's Club and they have been holding the Fete ever since, excepting one year, when the Masonic lodge and Eastern Star had charge."

Must Call the Police

"We have no way of accurately computing the number of people who visit the vine each year now, but it is estimated all the way from 60,000 to 75,000 people. Most of them come during the Fete but they keep coming long after it is over, in fact for several months after, when the vine has shed all its flower. I have difficulty keeping the crowds off the place. They swarm in and cannot understand that this is a private home. They beg to be let in and I must refuse, for if I let in one party I must let them all in. Sometimes I have had to call the police for protection."

There was a note of sadness in Mrs. Fennel's voice, expressing the pain it gave her to deprive the clamoring hordes or a glimpse of her precious charge.

"I would hate to give it up," she said, "but really it should not be privately owned. It ought to be public property, to have public care, to be owned by all the people—but" she hesitated.

"You wouldn't want to give it up."

"No, I wouldn't want to give it up."

Nature Does the Trick

There is always something to do with the vine. Every week the roots are watered well. The sprinkler is turned on and left to spray for twenty-four hours. During the past year there was another conference of experts and Mrs. Fennel was advised to put fertilizer in the ground. Holes were dug over the estate and about 1,200 pounds of fertilizer put into the earth. Previous to that Mrs. Fennel had used only one sack of fertilizer a year.

"The vine, you know, is subject to the weather," said Mrs. Fennel. "This year it has been at its best. The fertilizer helped. The color was darker and more striking, although I was agreeably surprised because the hot days came on so suddenly I was afraid the average blossoms would not be their full length. But they had had a long cool spell and that helped."

Mrs. Fennel can never tell how long the vine will hold its beautiful blossoms. It depends upon the weather—the wind and the rain. Some years they cling for two months, but they are only at their best for several weeks, during the period of the Fete.

The vine is thirty-seven years old. It was planted by Mrs. William F. Brugman in 1893, and thus was twenty years old when Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Fennel purchased the estate. Mrs. Brugman bought the original root from a local nursery. Full credit for the vine's present magnificence and the fact that it is the world's largest and finest is due to Mr. and Mrs. Fennel.

TULLY'S SISTER HAPPY OVER WINNING OF SUIT

One of the most dramatic legal suits of all time came to a close a few days ago when Richard Walton Tully, formerly of Sierra Madre, was declared by the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, to be the sole author of "The Bird of Paradise," a play which was the subject of a piracy suit by Grace A. Fendler, who wrote another play "In Hawaii." In the original trial in 1924, Miss Fendler won a judgement which went into seven figures.

"It was the moral vindication that my brother wanted," said Miss Ann Tully of this city. "What won out for him was the fact that he had registered his copyright a long enough time before Grace Fendler's."

Tully lived in this city until about three years ago. Besides his sister, Ann Tully, he had a brother, Argyle, who died in Sierra Madre about a year ago.

Covina Legion Post Has Commander At Home Dedication

A delegation of Sierra Madre Legionnaires went over to Covina Tuesday morning, to help Covina Post dedicate its fine new home. National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer, who is touring California and visiting local units, was the guest of honor and appropriate recognition was given Covina post and its commander, Frank Sherman, for having reached its 1930 membership quota by November of last year. The new building is complete in every detail, with a splendid canteen, ample auditorium and a spacious basement. The building is of stucco in striking Spanish design. Ralph W. and Mrs. Stewart, Lester K. Layton and Phil Dodson headed the Sierra Madre contingent.

QUARTER OF A MILLION VISITED BIG PINES COUNTY PARK IN 1929

A total of 240,713 persons visited Big Pines Recreation Park during 1929, according to the annual report of the Recreation bureau, just issued. This is an increase of 42,726 over the year previous, and a gain of 22 per cent.

During the recent winter sports season or since January 1st, nearly 150,000 persons have visited Big Pines.

The report shows that it required 67,515 automobiles carrying an average of 3.5 persons a minimum distance of 210 miles, in order to carry the more than one quarter million persons who visited Big Pines Camp last year, to and from their homes.

DUTY PLEASES GROWERS

Announcement is made in the May issue of the Sunset Courier that the increase in import duty of one-half cent per pound on foreign lemons, and the added duty on concentrated citrus fruit juices, has been approved by the joint conference committee of the Senate and House of Representatives. Though this does not necessarily mean that the bill will pass,

BOTH WETS AND DRY CLAIMING VICTORY IN POLL ON PROHIBITION

Both the wets and the drys are claiming victory in the poll taken by the Literary Digest on the prohibition question. In the total of 3,175,952 ballots tabulated the vote for repeal leads with 41 per cent, 30 per cent being for modification and 28 per cent for enforcement. The figures are: Enforcement, 915,651; modification, 951,475; repeal, 1,308,816. The drys claim the voters have marked the modification square as a compromise, and the wets point to the fact that modification means light wines and beers, so the vote is wet. The final vote is expected to total more than five million.

It is a decided step in the right direction, according to the California Fruit Growers Exchange.

Southern Pacific

GEORGE E. MESCAR, Agent
RED 38 — SIERRA MADRE

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S greatly reduced summer roundtrip fares to all eastern points will be in effect May 22 to September 30. (Return limit, October 31.)

And instead of but one route east, Southern Pacific offers you your choice of four! Four smooth steel-ways across the continent. Go east one Southern Pacific way—come back another at no added cost. Pick the cities you want to visit. List the natural wonders you want to see. Then link them all in one glorious "vacation trip of a lifetime."

Thus it's easy to double the interest and variety of your journey—see parts of America new to you. For each route is different, each brings romance, adventure, new sights to see—with every mile. And remember—only Southern Pacific offers you this extra privilege of choice of routes. Choose from:

GOLDEN STATE ROUTE: To Chicago, via Phoenix, El Paso, Kansas City. SUNSET ROUTE: Via Phoenix, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, and New Orleans. Then north or east. OVERLAND ROUTE: Lake Tahoe Line, via San Francisco, across Great Salt Lake by rail, Omaha, Chicago. SHASTA ROUTE (Fare slightly higher this way): East via the Pacific Northwest.

Take advantage of this variety and contrast to get the most out of your trip. Stop over anywhere you wish. Southern Pacific takes you to more eastern destinations without change of cars or trains than any other railroad.

First Train Out

One minute after midnight—12:01 a. m. May 22—the first train east at the low summer fares leaves Los Angeles. It's a happy crowd on a happy train. Make your reservations now.

First Glider Took the Air Here in 1910

H. L. Hawkshurst Tells of Experience With Baby Plane Years Ago

Adolf Kelterborn's Sierra Madre isn't the first flying thing to go out of the Wistaria City. Nor was the interest that caused the town to take a holiday when Kelterborn's sailship was christened the first concern that Sierra Madre showed in mastery of the air.

When Col. Charles Lindbergh was a mere infant this city had an Aero Club and with quite as much enthusiasm as marked the introduction of Kelterborn's glider to the world, had flown its own home-built though unnamed glider.

Let H. L. Hawkshurst, well known local artist who has also shown marked inventive genius, tell of the pioneering experiences.

"Yes, we built a glider here back in 1910," said Hawkshurst. "Our glider was about twenty feet long with a wing spread of half that distance. We drew lots to see who would go up in the machine the first time. William Richardson, now of the Richardson Music Company, was the one upon whom fortune, or misfortune, as it turned out, fell.

"Ten of the neighborhood boys, among them Donald Tarr, Earl Littell, Paul Littell, William Schwartz, Joseph Evans and Bob Clark, pulled the rope that set the glider in motion. The thing took off alright and went shooting ahead.

"There was a slight hill sloping downward and further on an even steeper decline that we had not figured on when we chose the place to take off.

"When Richardson got out over the steep part of the hill he must have gotten panicky because he took a nose dive right straight down and where do you think he landed? Right in the middle of a garlic patch! And on top of that, the man who owned the garlic patch came out shouting in Italian and flourishing a shotgun.

"Not discouraged by this we tried again, this time using a Ford car to pull the glider along on the end of a rope. We got up about ten feet but that was the best we could do."

Mr. Hawkshurst smiled and went on, "That was about the time that Paulen, the French aviator, flew an old Farman airplane from Dominguez field to Arcadia and back again. He traveled about forty miles and got $10,000 for his pains."

The city's young men had shown great enthusiasm over flying generally. While the first glider was under construction and shortly before its nose dive into the garlic patch they formed the Sierra Madre Aero Club, officiated by some of those who later helped jerk the sailplane into the air.

Romantic Drama At Hemet Features Over 200 Players

Advanced ticket sales for the eighth annual Ramona Pageant to be given at Hemet, April 26-27; May 3-4; and May 10-11, at 3 P. M., are the largest in the history of the play, according to an announcement made today by Edward Poorman, president and general manager of this spectacular community event. "The advance seat sale," said Mr. Poorman, "indicates an attendance of more than 30,000 at the six performances this season."

The Ramona Pageant is given by a cast of more than two hundred characters in the flower-banked Ramona Bowl and natural amphitheatre in the hills south of Hemet. Seating capacity of the Bowl is 6,000 and persons are permitted to drive their cars to within a few steps of the seating section. This great amphitheatre, representing a tremendous investment on the part of the people of Hemet and San Jacinto, is used exclusively for the production of the Ramona Pageant each springtime. The play begins at 3 o'clock each afternoon and ends as the sun goes down over the rim of the Bowl. The theatre is reached over paved highways from all parts of Southern California.

Although the majority of the cast are residents of the Hemet-San Jacinto Valley who have "grown up" with the play, the principals are drawn from the legitimate stage and motion pictures. Some of the country's finest talent is represented in the cast. Dorise Schukow will play the title role for the seventh year and Herbert Hayes will appear for the second time as her unfortunate lover, Alessandro.

The Ramona play is more than a Pageant. It is a fast moving drama of the history and romance of the Spanish era in California. The Hemet-San Jacinto Valley has been selected for this production because it was here that Helen Hunt Jackson found the incidents that she made the basis of her immortal novel and it was here also that many of the characters actually lived.

AVOCADO GROWERS TO MEET

Fire Flames

By One of the Boys

Once more the Wistaria Fete closes with a pronounced success as far as publicity to Sierra Madre is concerned. Whether or not the Woman's Club has benefited in a financial nature, is unknown to the writer. We do know that the ladies that were present daily must have sacrificed a lot of rest and home life.

The Fire Department's part in the affair was very successful, not only financially, but to park so many cars without accident or smash-ups is very satisfactory. On two different occasions, an accident was avoided by the action of one of the boys.

At the parking lot last Sunday there were many occasions where two firemen could be seen chasing the same car. This happened to "Alouis" (which is "Louie") and Jim. As they laughed at each other on their final arrival, the man of the car evidently had a guilty conscience and suspected they were laughing at him. "What da hell is so dam funny?" he asked. Jim (who is very sensitive) immediately began to explain by saying, "We were not laughing at you folks, we were laughing at each other." "Well, when I look at you fellows, there is little wonder at that," the cross man hastily answered.

On another occasion one of our very handsome, broadshouldered heroes was assisting a young lady from her car, when her little boy yelled, "Mama, ain't he the funny policeman?" That certain lady donated a whole dollar bill to the "poor firemen."

Just trying to be nice, another "smoke eater" asked if he could have her baby and will be dogged if she didn't turn it over to him and went away and left him for a long time. Now, that's faith in a fireman.

We don't quite grasp the attitude of Frank Lovell. He is now endeavoring to raise a mustache and talks of "love." He has his own definition of "love."

Some of the boys have taken to calling Joe Swanson, "Doc," just simply because he doesn't like it.

Last Thursday evening, every member of the fire department was measured for a complete new uniform. We have in our department about every shape of man that was ever created. Short ones, tall ones, fat ones, round ones, square ones, and some extremes to all of these. There's the chief for instance. He looks like the side of a barn with a flying crow on top. Somehow or other when you look at the chief's ears, you wonder if he is going to fly. Then, there comes assistant chief, George Norris. Quite a contrast to the chief. He looks like he might be a big fellow, but it's all air. All down along the line we have contrasts, "For instance," Lovell and Steinberger.

FAREWELL FOR HOLMES

A farewell dinner in honor of Arthur Holmes, chief boys' worker of the Congregational Church, will be given by the Boy Scouts and the Comrade Club at the Church this evening. Parents and friends of the Scouts and Comrades are cordially invited to be present at the dinner, which will be 25 cents. Holmes will be missed by his co-workers and charges. He leaves for Yosemite where he will enter the United States Forestry Service.

HUGE BENEFIT PLANNED

The entire amusement industry will take part in a mammoth N. V. A. Benefit in the Shrine Auditorium tomorrow evening (Saturday). Every prominent motion picture, stage, night club or concert star will appear and entertain in behalf of the National Variety Artists Association which is endeavoring to raise funds this year to care for needy and sick actors and actresses throughout the country.

Pasadena Voters Register in Record Number This Year

Registration is looking up in Pasadena far beyond the same period two years ago, says County Registrar of Voters William Kerr. Up to last Saturday noon the figures showed 27,610, a substantial increase although an exact comparison is not possible. Two years ago when registration closed the figures showed 30,963 voters for the presidential election. To date Pasadena has 21,226 Republicans, 3,375 Democrats, 140 Socialists, 815 Prohibitionists, and 1,654 who decline to state party affiliations. On May 1, 1928, the registration showed 30,972. Registration closes October 4th for the November election, while for the primary the books close July 26th.

The Glad Column

By EARL MOYER of Sierra Madre. Member of California and American Gladiolus Societies.

PLANT GLADS NOW!

During the last ten years glad diseases have become increasingly important throughout the United States. Since 1920, at least four new diseases attacking glads have been described. At present at least six bulb diseases are known to be widely distributed throughout the United States. In the past it was thought glads were one of the plants that were remarkably free from troubles that were caused by micro-organisms such as bacteria and fungi. The cause of trouble in the past was laid to poor soil; to the several elements that make up that complex, which is called climate; to fertilizer; to improper storage and certain insect pests.

Naturally the question is asked, why the diseases have become so wide-spread that they threaten to be the limiting factor of successful gladiolus bulb culture in many locations. The increased importance of the wide-spread distribution of gladiolus diseases can be regarded as the very natural result of the popularity that this beautiful garden flower has obtained within the last decade.

If any grower introduces certain diseases into his stock and then is not ultra-careful in sending out clean bulbs only, then the ultimate consumer, the backyard flower fan, introduces these diseases into his backyard soil. The introduction of these diseases into the soil sooner or later prevents the gardener from growing good stock and producing good blooms. This, of course, reacts on the grower, whose bulbs must go in large measure to the backyard gardens. Plant diseases include the following three types of troubles: Diseases caused by bacteria and fungi; the so-called mosaic or virus disease; improper culture, which includes both field and storage practice and all of the factors, climate and otherwise that may be involved.

In Your Garden--Now

What To Plant - What To Do

By Jessie Ward Landscape Gardener

ROSES

The modern roses come in such variety and are so very fine, it is hard to determine what ones to really plant. However there are a few that have proven up so well that everyone should have them. These varieties, I am sure, will adorn any garden:

Golden Emblem - A perfect golden yellow rose, tinted with crimson on the outer petals. Blossoms full and beautiful to the last. A magnificent rose and a great favorite.

Claudius Pernet - Clear sunflower yellow on tall stiff stems. Dame Edith Helen - A very large, perfectly shaped pink rose with a delightful fragrance. Called "the rose without a fault" and really lives up to its reputation.

Los Angeles Flame-pink shaded with yellow. Large and free blooming. A rose that California can be proud of.

Rose Marie - For an all-around rose we recommend this one because of its clear pink color, delightful fragrance and beautiful modeling.

Angeles Pernet - This unusual rose is the best of all the Pernet. The coloring is sensational, being a rich deep orange. The stems are long and the foliage is so green and glossy, it almost looks as if it were waxed.

Padre - Another striking rose as to coloring which is a reddish copper. Flowers borne on long stems.

Louise Breslau - Coral-red shaded to salmon-pink. Flowers large, foliage clean and glossy.

Imperial Potentate - A splendid new pink rose with a delightful fragrance. Flowers large and very double.

Hadley and Hoosier Beauty - These two roses are so similar they can be classed together. Both are large, a very deep crimson, with a velvety texture and very fragrant.

Queen Alexandria - Intense vermilion, shaded with old gold. Deep glossy green foliage, very large flowers.

Etoile de Hollande - A fragrant, brilliant red rose with no apparent faults. Perfect in bud or when fully developed.

Ping Radiance and Red Radiance - Both are very free blooming roses with well shaped blooms. These are good dependable roses and always give satisfaction.

CULTURE OF ROSES - At this time of the year, roses are full of new growth and buds and bloom, also aphids and mildew. But don't get discouraged about the latter, they are easy enough to control. Secure a bottle of Black Leaf 40 and a pound or two of powdered sulphur. Spray the roses with the Black Leaf 40 to kill the aphids or plant lice, then dust the foliage with the sulphur to stop the mildew.

Roses need fertilizer. Any kind will help—blood meal, bone meal, sulphate of ammonia, barnyard fertilizers or any reliable commercial fertilizer.

Don't prune roses at this time of the year. Do it when they are dormant in the winter. Budded roses should have the wild-ragged robin growth cut out about the roots any time it should happen to appear. It can be easily distinguished by its small leaves and reddish color in contrast to the budded variety.

Plant now for summer cut-flowers; Asters and Zinnias. The large asters come in early and late flowering varieties. The colors are blue, lavender, purple, pink, red and white. The giant dahlia flowering Zinnias come in the pink shades and orange and red. They should be planted in a sunny situation about 18 inches apart.

Pentstemon are splendid for color in the garden. The variety called Sierra Madre is especially fine. It blooms nearly all the year around. The flowers are extra large and the color is a good bright red. Planted in front of green or grey shrubbery, they are very striking.

Tritomas or Red Hot Pokers give just that warm, exotic touch to the Spanish style home. Plant two or three among your foliage for "atmosphere."

Don't forget to shade young avocado trees now before it is too late. Hot sunshine is death to the young trees. Burlap is the best material to use for shade.

BOY MOURNS FOR "BOY" KILLED DURING FROLIC

Something has gone out of the neighborhood in the vicinity of the Young home on Adams. There is general mourning for "Boy," the pet airdale of Carl Young.

"Boy" was killed while frolicking in the street by a passing car. "Boy" and Carl had been inseparable for five years. When Carl went to grammar school here "Boy" was the only dog allowed on the grounds, or in the school rooms. Every day he curled up under Carl's seat, and was the favorite of teachers and pupils alike. No dog can take "Boy's" place, of course, but Carl would like to have another pet—if you have an airdale or a police dog to spare.

The annual interest charge on the present bonded indebtedness for high and elementary schools in California, conservatively estimated, is over $10,000,000.

Legion Hears Col. Hersey On Balloons

City and Civic Leaders Help Greet Visitors at City Hall Rally

Col. H. B. Hersey, the government weather expert, was the star speaker at the eighteenth district meeting of the American Legion in the City Hall last Friday night. Col. Hersey dwelt on the close relation between the weather bureau and aviation. He cited the first international balloon race, held in 1906, in France as a case where his knowledge of weather laws contributed largely to his victory. He also related in a most interesting manner his trip over the same course as far as the Spitzbergen Islands as that taken by Commander Byrd in his recent trip.

The meeting was given a rousing send-off by the parade led by the Drum and Bugle Corps from Alhambra post. Prominent citizens and civic leaders were introduced, among them Robert Davies, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. J. H. Wright, postmistress; Phil Dodson, City Attorney; Mayor Al Meyers; and H. Clay Reavis, Wm. R. Lees, and Lester K. Layton, newly elected city councilmen. After the meeting a very enjoyable light lunch was served to the visitors.

The local post, now over the top with a membership of 65, is considering the adoption of articles of incorporation with a view to more effective handling of group projects. The incorporation process would not only facilitate the holding of public functions such as rodeos and benefit shows, but would protect the individual and put all responsibility on the corporate body. This move was discussed over a year ago but no action was taken at that time.

CAN'T CLEAN LOTS

County Fire Warden Spence D. Turner cannot legally use county fire district tax funds for the purpose of burning weeds off vacant lots that constitute a fire menace, County Counsel Everett W. Mattoon has ruled. The fire warden must continue his present practice of notifying owners of lots on which dry weeds exist to clear their property and, if this is not done, to remove the weeds at county expense after attaching a lien equal to the cost against the land.

because of the complicated nature of the process. The local post has been coming to the fore rapidly and it is felt that incorporation is more than justified at the present time.

Theatre Will Reopen With Best Movies

R. D. Armstrong and Oswald Bergien Actuated by Pubic Spirit

R. D. Armstrong, veteran moving picture cameraman, in conjunction with Oswald Bergien, owner of the Wistaria theatre have undertaken to give Sierra Madre a real theater, showing the best pictures at popular prices with the most modern sound equipment. Inspired by community spirit in the hope that all Sierra Madreans will lend support, the two have launched the new enterprise without thought of any money-making possibilities.

"In fact, we do not expect to make money," said Armstrong to day. "We will be satisfied if we can make expenses. Mr. Bergien has not only offered the building but his own services in looking after the front of the house, while I will operate the picture machines. We will endeavor to get the best pictures and will distribute questionnaires to learn what the local picture devotees want to see. We have had two expert sound engineers installing what will be practically a new sound equipment, which will entirely eliminate the echo and other faults that made the old equipment inadequate.

"We have also put in a new sound screen and loud speaker, and in addition we are placing drapes designed to improve and regulate the sound. We are doing everything to make the theater as perfect for talking pictures as any theater in San Gabriel valley and if we can keep it open we will be satisfied to contribute our services."

The public spirit of Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Bergien deserves the fullest support of every organization and every resident of Sierra Madre.

Mr. Coburn, who recently closed the theater, after an unfortunate experience, sustained a loss on every talkie he exhibited with the exception of "The Sky Hawk," which attracted unusual attention because most of its exterior scenes had been made in Sierra Madre. The sound equipment installed by Mr. Coburn proved defective.

The exact date for the reopening of the Wistaria has not been set, but it will probably be on Wednesday or Thursday of next week. In the meantime the front of the Wistaria will receive a fresh coat of paint and the interior will be freshened up.

Mr. Bergien has lived and been in business here for more than twenty years. Mr. Armstrong made his first movie in 1909, when the movie industry was young. In 1917, while operating a camera during the taking of a picture directed by Mack Sennett he was

Mrs. Lindbergh Wins Seat in Hall of Fame With Noted Husband

Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, bride of the Colonel, climbed to fame in company with her husband on a record-breaking flight from Los Angeles to New York City in 14 hours, 23 minutes, 17 second—3 hours, 16 minutes and 6 seconds less than the record made by Captain Frank Hawks. For two weeks previous to the start Mrs. Lindbergh made an intensive study of navigation and was able to serve as navigator, thus sharing credit with her noted husband. The plane maintained an altitude of 10,000 feet, flew at the rate of 180 miles an hour, and made one stop at Wichita, Kan., to refuel. The object was to obtain data for use of express planes crossing the continent.

Local Fishermen Getting Ready For Opening Of Season

All the local fishermen are brushing up their rods and tackle for the opening of the fishing season, May 1st. Reports from all the nearby fishing haunts foretell rare sport this year. "Bill" Murphy, of Hoegge's Camp, sends word that the water is good and the trout plentiful in Winter creek. Chery DeVore bulletins that the West fork of the San Gabriel promises excellent sport, the water being high and the fish so numerous their flashing bodies can be seen in the pools.

At Robert's Camp, Fern Lodge, and First Water Camp on the Big Santa Anita there is every promise of lively times for the Isaac Waltons. And behind the flood control dam of Big Santa Anita the small-mouthed bass, the gamest of all inhabitants of the mountain streams, are waiting to give sportsmen a real tussle.

Among the fishermen eagerly awaiting the opening day are Bob Babbitt, Gordon and Banks Langworthy, Waverly Pratt, Gordon Brooks, Gordon McMillan, and Vic Hill.

MRS. MITCHELL DIES

Mrs. Mary J. Mitchell, formerly of Leola, South Dakota, died suddenly at 67 Windsor Lane, April 4th. She was born in Bangor, Maine, in 1848, and moved to Minnesota, where she was married. Rev. Ogg, of Bethany Church, officiated at her funeral in the Ray Grant Chapel. She was buried in Mountain View, Pasadena. She leaves a daughter now living in South Dakota.

seriously injured by a ricocheting bullet, and again a year later he was run down by a skidding auto while taking a scene in a Sennett picture. He has produced pictures himself and is noted as an expert photographer.

Sierra Madre Actors Enter For Contest

Expert to Take Prize With Play in Santa Ana Tourney

The Sierra Madre Community Players will enter the annual Santa Ana play contest to be held from May 1 to 3, inclusive. The local organization will produce "Spirals," a one-act play with the following cast: Mrs. Cecily Allen as Mary, the heroine; Mrs. R. A. Adams, Nita, the sympathetic friend of Mary; C. H. Perry, John, the hero; W. L. Stanton, Claude, the friend of John; and J. N. Hawks, the waiter in the inn where the scene is laid. This play has already been put on at a meeting of the players and should put Sierra Madre well up toward the top in the competition.

The local players took second prize last year and are reckoned one of the strongest of the ten contestants this year.

"Minick," will be the play presented about the first of June by the Community Players. Norval McGregor, noted actor, will coach this play and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stanton will both appear in roles. Mrs. Stanton, the wife of W. L. Stanton, who professionally is "Fox" Stanton, of Caltech gridiron fame, came into the first meeting and saw Mr. McGregor.

"I've met you before," she declared. "Why, yes," answered McGregor, "you're the girl I played stock with years ago in Oakland." "Minick" has been popular wherever it has run and should please Sierra Madre audiences when it is produced by the local players. All members are invited to attend rehearsals.

73 Peaks in State Are Over 13,000 Feet

California may justly be called the Switzerland of America, according to the United States geographical survey, which shows that there are 73 mountain peaks in the state with an elevation of over 13,000 feet.

In addition to this, California, the hiker's paradise, may claim the highest mountain in the United States, which is Mount Whitney, having an altitude of 14,501 feet. Mount Williamson is second in height with 14,384 feet.

LONG BEACH PLANTS TREES. The campaign for cleaning up and beautifying California is gaining fresh recruits constantly. One of the latest announcements is that Long Beach is starting on the largest tree planting job it has ever undertaken. A program in California Heights provides for the planting of 2,003 trees of various varieties along the highways.

Tips to Motorists

Smoking not only is prohibited in the national forests during the dry weather period, but also on county lands where there is danger of brush fires, is a "pre-season" warning of the state-wide "Stop Forest Fires" Committee.

Due to the fact that warmer weather is at hand it is advisable when the oil is changed in the crank case to put in a little heavier grade than you have been using. Warmer weather makes the motor run hotter and of course the oil to become thinner.

If you drop bottles on the highway you will be arrested, says Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the California highway patrol, and the same applies to wire, tacks, or other injurious materials. Also you must come to a full stop passing school buses loading or unloading.

Now is the time to visit the desert east of Palm Springs, according to the Touring Department of the National Automobile Club, as many varieties of desert flowers are in bloom. Palm Springs is 115 miles distant from Los Angeles, and paved road is traversed the entire distance by way of Redlands or Riverside.

During the past five years the average driving speed of motor vehicles has increased about 40 per cent. It is debatable whether the public has gained anything besides more accidents and greater nervous tension from the swifter pace, nor is the time saved being devoted to any useful purpose.

Although the unfortunate owner may not see the mishap, it is up to the motorist who bends the fender of a parked vehicle to leave his name and address on the damaged car, telling its owner how it happened. This is required by a section of the state law. The law demands that the offending driver find the owner of the damaged machine, but if he fails in this he must not only leave his address on vehicle but also notify the police of the accident within 24 hours.

Having the right of way is not an assurance of safety for the motorist, it is held in a decision in the supreme court of Michigan, according to advice reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. The court held that the statutory right of way at a street or highway intersection is not an assurance of safety, nor is it an absolute right under all conditions, but that both drivers must use care. A driver cannot continue to assume that the one on the left will accord him the right of way when circumstances would indicate the contrary to a reasonable person.

COVERED WAGON ROLLS BACK TO THE LYRIC IN A "SONG OF THE WEST"

The covered wagon with their romance rumble across the Lyric screen when "Song of the West" comes to that theatre tonight and tomorrow night, April 25 and 26. Vivienne Segal and Joe E. Brown are the stars of this colorful production.

A submarine melodrama, "Men Without Women," which has scored a smashing success, comes to the Lyric on Sunday and Monday, April 27 and 28. This picture shows sixteen men trapped at the bottom of the sea in a submarine. What follows is thrilling and dramatic. Kenneth McKenna, Frank Albertson, Farrell MacDonald, Stuart Erwin and Roy Stewart are members of the sterling cast with which Director John Ford worked to make this triumph.

Charles King and Bessie Love—two players whose names are unforgettably linked in "The Broadway Melody," once more appear together in an all-talking, singing, dancing picture "Chasing Rainbows," scheduled for the period from Tuesday to Friday, April 29 to May 2. The two stars, with a strong appeal for everybody, score heavily in a jazzy, peppy human interest story.

"Cameo Kirby," taken from a play by two of America's most popular writers, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, is the Lyric offering on Saturday, May 3. This is a romantic musical drama featuring J. Harold Murray and Norma Terris.

IRVING WARDS "AT HOME."

Easter Sunday evening the home of Mrs. Irving N. Ward, 109 East Grand View, was the scene of a gathering of friends, honoring the arrival home of their talented artist daughter, Miss Beatrice Ward, who has been free living in New York City the past winter season. The charming "at homes" Sunday evenings are eagerly looked forward to by friends.

Beatrice Ward, a portrait painter of note in Southern California art circles, was formerly the artist for Grauman's Chinese theatre, Hollywood. She has done many of the popular movie stars' portraits, and successfully interprets into her pictures their beauty and personality.

"Bee," as her friends know her, has returned by boat from New York to New Orleans, thence here by Santa Fe.

The Ward home was decorated in Transval daisies and spring blossoms in profusion. The buffet supper table was lovely with a center of gold marigolds and matching candles in silver holders. Music was enjoyed in the later evening. Francis Eakman sang "See, Love, I Bring These Flowers," "I Heard You Go By," and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride." Joe Eastwood, with guitar accompaniment, sang "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl," and with piano accompaniment, "The Desert Song" and others. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Eakman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Eastwood, Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Senour, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Adis, Ralph Russell, Miss Alice Johnstone, Miss E. M. Ladd, Mrs. J. L. Asbury, Mrs. Mary E. Fitts, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shippey, Miss Beatrice Ward, Miss Jessie Ward, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. C. Roess, Mrs. Wm. Butts, Miss Laura Cadmus and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ward.

JOINT BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A joint birthday party was celebrated the day before Easter, April 19, when Marilyn Middough and Billy Asbury were both six-years old.

The games were played at the home of Mrs. Will Middough, 196 East Central, where Easter baskets were hidden in the shrubbery and an egg hunt ensued.

Refreshments were served from the veranda of the Asbury residence where a long table was attractively decorated with Easter bunnies, chickens, colorful baskets, and favors, nut cups, in pastel colorings. Cakes at either end of the table, with Marilyn written on one and Billy on the other, were lighted with pastel colored candles.

The grandmothers of each honor guest were present, Mrs. Wallace of Long Beach and Mrs. Mary E. Fitts of Seattle. Irene Middough assisted in the entertainment of the small guests. Miss Claire Newman and Mrs. McDaniels with son, Buddy, of Long Beach, were present. Forty-five children were invited, including Miss Claire Newman's first-grade and the neighborhood boys and girls.

THAYER-RASBACK HONOR EBELL CLUB

Donald Thayer, accompanied by Oscar Rasback at the piano, was the soloist for the Ebell Club, of Los Angeles, in the Windsor Square Theatre, Monday, April 21, before a capacity audience, the largest affair of the season.

A tea and reception were tendered the artists after the program in the spacious club rooms on Wilshire Boulevard.

EVERETT KEEGAN WEDS MICHILLINDA GIRL—

Wedding bells carolled sweetly for Everett H. Keegan, Jr., of the local Safeway Store, and Miss Helen V. Usery, on Wednesday night, April 16, at the home of the bride, 849 Michigan Blvd., Michillinda, Calif. Arnold Usery, brother of Miss Usery, and Miss Eva Linder stood up for the bride and Frank Usery gave her away.

The wedding march was played by Miss Kathleen Bland of Michillinda. Charles Tanner, accompanied by his wife, sang "Promise Me." A large number of friends and relatives were present and the couple received many pretty gifts. The happy couple will, of course, reside in Sierra Madre.

THE WAY TO USE PRUNING SHEARS

Work the cutting blade lowermost so that you pull it upward, though the pressure is downward on the handle of the cutting side.

This allows you to cut smoothly and close to the stem from which the pruned shoot is removed.

Watch the "set" of the blade. Don't let it get sprung.

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, who is in Palestine with some of her followers visiting the historic places of the Holyland, baptized twelve of her disciples in the River Jordan, at the spot where Christ is believed to have been baptized. AN ORANGE SHOW LAZY DOG ASPIRANT

Mary Jane Kerry and "Mac"

If your dog is truly nonchalant and yawns indifferently when you cry "sic 'em," there is a chance that he may bring you fame.

The degree of eagerness shown by a dog when "sic 'em" is enthusiastically uttered is one of a series of tests announced today by officials of the tenth annual California Valencia Orange Show to be held in Anaheim next month in a contest to select the sleepest and most sympathetic-looking dog in California.

The contest is being conducted to find a dog that would have been an ideal companion for that leisurely character of old Dutch legend, Rip Van Winkle. The Valencia show this year is to have a Rip Van Winkle decorative motif and in its exhibits will essay to recreate the indolent charm of Rip Van Winkle and his times. The prize-winning dog is to serve as companion for the show's Rip Van Winkle, who will be official host for the exposition.

erts estate, are five lovely vines that are luxuriantly growing.

W. R. Humphries, Mrs. A. A. Halsey, the Woman's Club House, S. R. G. Twycross, George Lehner, H. C. Lieben, L. Melzner, R. M. Finlayson and Henry Olsen all have vines worthy of mention.

125-Foot Vine Here

The entire Ramada, pergola and surrounding trees of the attractive home of Mrs. Hazel L. Smith and Mrs. McCray, 205 West Live Oak, extending probably 125 feet mingled with Ragged Robin roses, was lovely during the garden tours of the Wistaria Fete. On the guest house, with pink mamon cochet roses, is another lovely vine.

The Alvin Langley vine, at 72 East Montecito, was a show in itself during the fete. Being six years old, a cutting from the Fennel vine, blooming slightly earlier, its growth has been outstanding. Mr. Langley is constantly trimming it back, but still it luxuriantly covers the pergola on the west and north of the house and was profusely covered with blooms.

E. E. Bacon's have several young vines growing over a pergola; three vines ten to twelve years old, are at the Ward home on East Grand View, one an early variety, the blooms christening the sailplane, Sierra Madre, in March; the Charles E. Fenner's on East Allegria boast a lovely vine; the Hastings ranch has several splendid specimens over a pergola in the home which was burned last year, and they have planted six more this year.

All varieties do well in Sierra Madre and can be planted in the sun or shade.

pressure in the canyon and meet all the water needs for at least 25 years, in the Engineer's opinion.

Mayor Myers was authorized by the council to act for the city in all matters pertaining to the drainage project planned for Live Oak avenue. The original plan worked out for this project does not suit the needs of Sierra Madre, in the Council's judgment. The Council approved the decision of the planning commission in choosing the jacaranda as the official tree for Alameda avenue between Baldwin and Carter avenues. The thoroughfare is already partly planted with jacarandas.

Away With Useless Facts Judge Tells School Week Rally

"Every cent put into education is an investment yielding a thousand per cent," declared Judge Walter J. Haas, speaking before the Public Schools Week mass meeting held last night in the city hall. "The school system is adjusting itself to the complex conditions brought on by the war. Education is little by little training the minds of the young instead of trying to drum facts into them."

The program was opened by the 40-piece harmonica band drawn from members of the second to sixth grade and directed by Miss Pfahler. This was followed by a demonstration of advanced rhythmic by members of the 6-B grade in costume. The students who took part in the exercise showed a remarkable degree of talent.

Members of the city council were interested spectators. There were over two hundred and fifty people present.

Goodner, Miss Mabel Culter, Mrs. C. B. Whitwell, Miss Christina Brackcamp, all of Los Angeles; Rev. T. Marshall Morsey, president of the Harvester Mission of Los Angeles; Rev. Dr. Thomas Mosley, of Thibet, and Mrs. R. Nielson Muir, of South African General Mission, will also be among the speakers. The soloist during the day services will be Mrs. Robert Harkness, wife of the well-known composer of sacred songs; for the evening services Roy Stevens will be the soloist. All attending the conference meetings, which are open to all, are entertained at lunch each day by the Missionary Society, under whose auspices the program is given.

Boy Organizations to "Do Their Stuff" at Father and Son Dinner

Plans have been completed for a Father-and-Son banquet in the social hall of the Congregational church tonight, honoring the boys' leader, Art Holmes, who soon leaves for Yosemite. The Friendly Indians, Comrades, Pioneers and Scouts with their fathers, are the guests.

A. C. Gerschler is to be toastmaster, introducing Dennis H. Stovall, formerly scout master here, but now of South Pasadena.

Each club will go through their ceremonies on the stage. The following mothers of the boys will prepare the dinner and serve it: Mrs. M. R. McBurney, chairman, Mrs. Dave Buchan, Mrs. W. J. Adwell, Mrs. Arthur Evans, Mrs. Rudolph Hartman, Mrs. Wm. McKittrick, Mrs. George B. Morgridge, Mrs. C. L. Twycross, Mrs. Philip Senour, Miss Melissa Clark and Mrs. J. L. Asbury.

GEORGE WILLIAMS NOW MAYOR OF MONROVIA

George Williams was elected mayor of Monrovia at the first meeting of the new council last Monday night. Mayor A. J. Little declined to serve another term. The first act of the council was a decision not to carry city employees' liability insurance with the state and to establish a compensation fund of its own instead with the premium of $3,500 now due. This action was due to two accidents the past year which jumped the premium from $1200 to $3500 annually.

ONTARIO HESITATES IN ESTABLISHING AIR PORT

The fate of the Ontario city airport is hanging in the balance following the expression of Mayor Francis Williams and Councilmen Garrison and Emmons that they would not be willing to obligate the city further. Proper advertising of the port will take a considerable sum of money. Definite action will be taken in two weeks.

SUGAR LABORERS SOON BECOME BIG MERCHANTS

Some of the biggest merchants in Hawaii today were formerly laborers who went there to work in the sugar fields. They have mounted rapidly in the commercial world by adopting the best tactics of American business. Their stores and equipment are identical with those in use on the mainland. Of the number, many have achieved great wealth. Their example seems to act as an incentive for the younger generation who resent any inquiry covering their patriotic allegiance. They consider themselves as American as the most militant Yankee.

A phenomena of Hawaii's Americanization is the rapid disappearance of foreign language newspapers. Formerly they existed in great numbers. One by one they have disappeared until only a few remain. Even those which exist today carry sections in English and one has made the English part of the paper the front section, which makes it to all intents and appearances an average American newspaper with a Japanese edition appended. Sociologists say that the Americanization process has extended to where American numerical family standards are being adopted. The family of ten or twelve children will soon be a rarity, according to observers.

Tax Exemptions for War Veterans a Huge Sum

Approximately 165,000 world war veterans in California have been relieved of the payment of taxes for 1929 on property valued at $102,223,952, according to a report by Secretary Dixwell L. Pierce of the State Board of Equalization. Tax exemptions are allowed under the constitutional amendment passed in 1911. The exemptions were granted by the County Assessors in the 58 counties of the State. Los Angeles County veterans with total exemptions of $39,649,205 top the list and little Alpine County with exemptions of $1,830 is at the bottom.

The first flying fish of the season have arrived in Catalina water. This is a month earlier than usual for the butterflies of the sea which are a migratory fish.

Babies of Sisters Born Same Day Baptised

Two girl babies whose destinies appear to be joined are Carolyn Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brooks, and Mary Kathleen Scoville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Scoville all of this city. The babies were born on the same day—the day before last Thanksgiving—and their mothers are sisters. Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Scoville were respectively Mora and Elizabeth Polsue before their marriages. These two children of destiny were baptised Easter morning at the Bethany Church.

Ontario chose A. B. Lund, N. H. Garrison, and Dr. C. L. Emmons as councilmen in the recent election. A fourth candidate was hopelessly outclassed.

WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFUL BOWER

THE Sierra Madre Wistaria is the most gorgeous bower of flowery loveliness to be found in the Western Hemisphere. The Fennel vine is believed to be the largest in the world. It covers almost the entire estate of Estelle Haines Fennel and was planted in 1893. Mingled with its tendrils may be seen three varieties of roses planted at about the same time. The first Wistaria Fete in Sierra Madre was held in 1913. It has been a great annual event since that time.

THE SIERRA MADRE NEWS

SIERRA MADRE was the first community in America to reach one hundred per cent perfection in employment, in response to President Hoover's appeal for the promotion of public work. Mayor Al Myers reported this attainment to the President and received the following reply from the White House:

March 18, 1930. My dear Mr. Mayor: Your telegram of March 17th has been received. What you report regarding labor conditions in Sierra Madre is very gratifying to the President. He asks me to thank you for your kindness in sending him the information. Sincerely yours, Lawrence Riebey, Secretary to the President.

In the brief time intervening between the decision to thus visualize the beauties of Sierra Madre to the world and the "deadline" for the preparation of this copy it was possible only to ask for the co-operation of a few citizens of Sierra Madre. Later others will be asked to help in some capacity or other and recognition of their efforts will be given in a later issue.

Why I Live in Sierra Madre

By Lee Shippey

Creator of "Lee Side of L. A." and Author of "Personal Glimpses"

I LIVE in Sierra Madre because it seems to me to have more real distinction than any other town I know. It is a friendly town—I know no other which takes one to its heart quite the way Sierra Madre does; yet it is a town in which one may enjoy quiet, refreshment and simple beauty. It is the only real city in Southern California which still has rustic charm, yet it has all the progressiveness one needs, and is in easy reach of the lovely city of Pasadena and the great city of Los Angeles. In all the other towns there is an atmosphere of strain, of competition, of fear that some other town will do a little more business, put up bigger buildings, or make a louder noise.

One of the great delights of Sierra Madre, to me, is that there is nothing about it to attract the go-getter. It attracts only people of quiet refinement who love beauty and simplicity more than the dollar sign. The result is that one's neighbors are quiet, gentle folk who can admire and grow fond of each other for what they are, not for what they have, and take pride in each other's real gifts for art, music, letters, inventiveness, citizenship, or friendship.

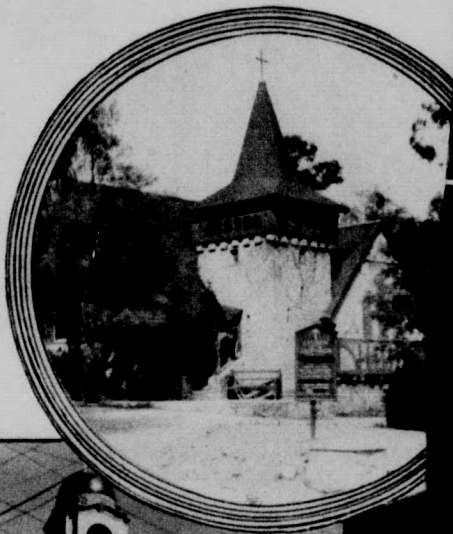

When one of our boys builds a glider, all of us are eager to see it triumph. When one of ours sings a song, or paints a picture, or writes a book, all of us are interested. If we had a great factory here, or struck oil here, we would lose immeasurably. For, after all, money never yet made a town. Nothing but people make a town. And here we have people who would make any town a town of charming gardens, friendly homes and loyal comradeships. And where can one find more than that?

The Woman's Club is the center of Sierra Madre's social life. It was founded by Mrs. Caroline Lincoln Osgood, March 11, 1907, with fifty-three members. The present membership is 225. The primary object of the club is to promote unity and good fellowship, and to strengthen philanthropic, creative and civic effort. Under the administration of Mrs. John H. Robertson, who will preside over the fete, the club has initiated many distinctive features and entertained many distinguished personages.
